

FREE COMPUTER HELP SESSIONS IN THE QUAD-CITIES

The Quad-Cities Computer Society is proud to present
SPECIAL SEPTEMBER EVENTS WITH AUTHOR

ABBY STOKES!!

September 14th-15th, 2015

Abby Stokes, a nationally known author, teacher and lecturer, specializes in teaching basic computer skills to people she calls "digital immigrants" who didn't grow up with a keyboard and a mouse in hand.

Abby's talks are fun 90 minute sessions that are reassuring, jargon-free and they have helped over 250,000 seniors get started with computers, including her own "digitally-challenged mother! Her guidance can eliminate your fear of technology.

The Quad-Cities Computer Society is excited to host Abby for a third time! Previous audiences have given her rave reviews. Her book will be available for purchase and autographs, but there is NO pressure to buy. Abby's website is www.AskAbbyStokes.com.

The 2015 printing of "Is This Thing On? A Friendly Guide to Everything Digital for Newbies, Technophobes, and the Kicking & Screaming" has been updated to include both Apple and Android mobile devices in addition to MACs and PC's.

ALL OF THESE EVENTS ARE FREE and will help you catch up with friends and family already using computers, tablets, smart phones and social media.

Monday, September 14th, 7 PM at the Butterworth Center Library, 1105 8th Street in Moline:

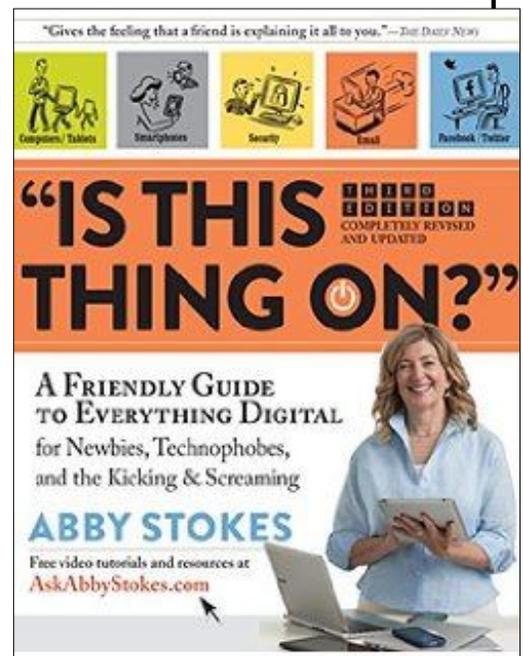

"Social Networking: What the Heck are Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn???" Abby will explain what everyone's talking about when they bring up social networking sites. She'll also share how you can enjoy the benefits without risking the loss of your privacy.

Tuesday, September 15th, 10 AM at CASI 1035 W Kimberly Rd, Davenport, IA:

"Navigate Our Digital World" The digital divide widens with all the new innovations and gadgets. What is out there and how might it benefit you? Should you buy a tablet or a computer? Stick with your PC or move onto an Apple? How do you maximize your searches and why on earth do people want to share on Facebook? Abby helps digital immigrants understand what everyone is talking about and how to decide what might work best for them.

Tuesday, September 15th, 7 PM at the Viking Club, 1450 - 41st St, Moline, IL

"Make Every Click Count" With our busy lives no one can spare time to search the computer for a lost item. Abby helps you organize and simplify computer files and shows you how to protect your privacy and computer data. Learn how to find volunteer opportunities online and use your voice and your mouse to make a difference in your community and beyond.
